Intelligence of the Oriole

On the western side of Central Park, very near 103d street and 8th avenue, stands a row of elm trees, difficult to approach on account of a heavy growth of sprigs, bushes around them. On a branch of one of these trees, about sixteen feet from the ground, a pair of Baltimore Orioles set to building a nest a few weeks ago. They chose the extreme end of the bough, with evident intention of making it a hazardous experiment for any bird nester to attempt to molest them. But in their excess of caution they appeared not to observe that the few persons whose eyes were keen enough to see the first labor of the little architects saw that the branch was too slender to support so large a nest as an oriole's.

When the nest was about two-thirds finished the birds saw their mistake. The branch had bent so low that it was getting perilously near the grass. Work was at once stopped and the builders set close together for a long time and seemed to be discussing the situation. Finally they flew side by side to a bough about fifteen inches over the one on which their nest was, and, leaning over, inspected the distance. They seemed to be satisfied, and though it was growing rapidly dusk, the birds flew away in opposite directions. In the morning it was found that they had firmly re-located their habitation and prevented the branch from bending lower by passing a piece of white string, which they had found somewhere in the park, over the upper bough, and fastening both ends of it securely to the edges of the nest. The building then went rapidly on and the orioles were engaged in hatching their eggs. Very few persons have seen the nest and there is a fair prospect that their skill and ingenuity will soon be rewarded by a brood of young orioles.

The Baltimore Oriole is a very intelligent bird, but a New York ornithologist who saw the nest said he had never seen an achievement quite equal to this one before. He says the art of building nests or arranging together in well known to many birds. The weaver bird of India builds its nest out of a large, strong leaf, which it stitches together at the edges, making a compact and closely-adhering funnel. [New York Sun]

It simplifies our anxieties greatly to remember that as far as this life goes, all we have is the present. The past is gone and done with, the future here may not come at all, and how it will paint its scenes we cannot guess; nor is there any one wise enough to tell us. We have at best a very small slice of life, and the bits we take to day is all we can taste just now—sweet or bitter. And yet what agonies of mind we endure about the little that is left of our existence—the rest of our seventy or eighty years, when twenty or thirty, or fifty of them are gone.

The man of business cannot sleep, thinking of his investments and his speculations. The middle-aged woman grows hollow cheeked with anxieties about the income of years to be. People have no time to laugh or love, because they are storing away all sorts of valuables for the future—perpetually making ready for their brief voyage between the cradle and the grave. [N. Y. Ledger]

WARNED IN TIME.—Many an unhappy marriage might have been avoided if the bride had only been able to decide as promptly and as wisely as did the young lady who was the heroine of this incident. An exchange says that a Miss Josephine Dash, with whom the editor is acquainted, had a more than usual beauty and a sound head. She lives in the State of New York. About a year ago she became acquainted with a young man in Michigan.

They were to be married in October, and a day or two since he arrived at the lady's home too full for utterance.

When she discovered that he was drunk she ordered him to be removed. Her father removed him, gave him his supper, lodging and breakfast, took him to the station and advised him to return to Michigan and reform.

The young lady now congratulates herself with the fact that it will not be necessary for her to get a divorce in a year or two on account of drunkenness and cruelty.

Justice Delehanty, of Long Island City, has decided that Sunday base ball is a "mere pastime when indulged in for relaxation or recreation," and therefore not a violation of the penal code. The Justice doesn't say what he thinks of the game when eight or ten thousand people pay four or five thousand dollars for the privilege of booting and howling at professionals who provide the "relaxation or recreation" on salaries that would make a legislator's mouth water. [Louisville Times]

Dyspepsia in its worst form will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress, but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

A Sily Attack on Gov. Cleveland Answered.

The character of the attacks which have been made on Gov. Cleveland has been so trivial and flimsy that they are supremely ridiculous where seriously made. That nothing of more consequence can be found against the Governor is the strongest evidence of his invulnerability. The republicans simply echo and exaggerate a few objections which Tammany has brought against him. The chief of these is that he vetoed a bill to reduce the fare on the New York Elevated railway to five cents at all hours of the day and that he thus showed that he is of the interest of the monopolists rather than the workmen at heart.

The absurdity of this becomes at once apparent on an examination of the facts, when the republicans scrupulously suppress.

In the first place the fare on the road was already at five cents for two hours every morning and evening when the workmen had occasion to travel over the road. A reduction of the fare to five cents during the rest of the day would not have benefited the workmen, but would simply have given the professional and business men an opportunity to ride over the road for a few cents less.

Gov. Cleveland's action, however, as shown in his veto, was not dictated mainly by such considerations, but by his plain conviction of duty. The charter of the road stipulated that its fare should not be reduced to five cents during the middle of the day until its earnings amounted to ten per cent. Right or wrong, this was the law and Gov. Cleveland was sworn to support the law. He had the honor and the courage to respect his oath in spite of the unpopularity of his action and he manfully did his duty.

This is the great bugaboo which is urged against him to prove that he is opposed to the interests of the workmen. Its ridiculousness is apparent on a statement of the facts, even if such a charge were not thoroughly disproved by Gov. Cleveland's whole official career, which, itself, in the interest of pure and economical government for all, has signed many measures for the betterment of the laboring men, notably the Tenthent House Bill, the law of Labor Day and the bill for the abolition of the contract system. [Carter-Journal]

THE RIGHT MAN.—The other day on an Arkansas railroad train, an important looking gentleman took a seat beside a quiet man and began a conversation.

"I am going to Little Rock," he said, "to get a pardon for a convict thief. I am not personally acquainted with the Governor, but he can't afford to refuse me."

"The fellow goes," inquired the man.

"Of course he is, but that makes no difference. His friends have agreed to give me $500 if I get him out and the thermometer is very low when I can't put up a good talk. Where are you traveling?"

"Going to Little Rock."

"Do you live there?"

"Yes."

"Perhaps you might be of some service to me. What business are you engaged in?"

"I'm the Governor," said the quiet man. [Arkansas Traveler]

WHITE FLANNEL AT LONG BRANCH.—It should be known that white flannel is the property of all proper things at Long Branch this season. Every second woman on a hotel piazza wears a wonderful symphony in white flannel and it is a safe wager that neither Solomon nor George Francis Train in all his glory was ever as rapt like one of these. Blue flannel is apparently relegated to marine regions—the bathing house—while all other colors and their names are legion have a first mortgage on the tennis courts. Tennis is fashionable and the ladies go out and pretend to play it, but as they would pretend to play tennis if that were fashionable. Since the erection of the West End Hotel of a billiard room exclusively for ladies it has become more or less fashionable for them to handle the cue.

MR. ALI TRIP.—It often occurs that doctors do not cure a well patient the whole truth. An Austin doctor has a very neat way of encouraging the patient, and at the same time he does not derive from the truth.

"Doctor, please examine my chest. There is something the matter with my lungs," said a man far gone in consumption.

The doctor examined the patient's chest and consoled him by saying:

"You just go home and don't bother about your lungs."

"Is there nothing the matter with them?"

"I don't say that there is nothing the matter with them, but they will last you until you draw your last breath, and you certainly will not have any use for them after that."

Expelled gas filled the vault of the German Bank of Wheeling, W. Va., and when chief clerk John Hill struck a match to apply to the burner in the vault an explosion followed that blew out the glass front of the building. Heil was badly hurt.

DR. HDSANICO.

This name has become so familiar with the most of people throughout the United States that it is hardly necessary to state that he is the discoverer of the great Dr. Hdsanico's Cough and Lung Syrup, the people's favorite remedy, wherever known, for Coughs, Colds, Consumption and all affections of the Throat and Lungs. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Sold by McRoberts & Stage.

ROCKCASTLE SPRINGS.

—The attention of the "Merry Bachelors" of Stanford is called to the following list of young ladies now at Rockcastle Springs: Misses Ella Blazebrook, Ida Meade, Sally Taggart, Annie Coker, Ella Taggart, Susie Finnie, Susie Yandell, Lena Ross, Mattie Netherland, Jennie Granger, Jessie Otter, Bessie Newman, Lula Mounce, Jennie Moore, of Louisville; Pauline Sampson, Shelbyville; Jennie Maguire, Lexington; Viola Oriant, New Orleans, etc., etc. Fancy dress, phantom and masked balls are all the rage and rosy-faced country dudes, with nimble, fantastic toes are especially needed now.

Fair Play.

Editor Interior Journal: In your issue of July 25th you state on the authority of Mr. J. B. Owens that in the field trial near Lebanon, between the McCormick and Wood machines, that the McCormick was victorious. We beg leave to submit the following extract from a letter just received from Mr. Nichols, a very reliable agent of the Wood machine. B. & C. Messrs. BRIGHT & CURRAN.—"Facts can be nothing less than facts and it is a fact that the McCormick would not submit to any method by which a committee could be appointed, but loaded up their machine and hauled it out of the field, after failing even in getting a man to sign a put-up and pre arranged certificate. As to his story that the Wood choked, I will say that it did not choke once. Tell Jim to get further away from his base to make statements wide of the mark. The truth is while there was no committee to decide the matter, we have won a greater victory than the one at Lebanon. Yours truly, NICHOLS."

Good Business Rules.

Business men, especially those who are prompt and methodical, are guided by certain elementary principles. In some cases these principles are formulated into simple rules, which cover even the details of conduct.

A prominent New York banker attributes his success in business to the care with which he has obeyed these plain rules:

Take time for eating, sleeping and digestion.

Don't worry. Be satisfied with your work after doing it well.

Never ask another to do what you ought to attend to personally.

Shun the slightest appearance of dishonesty, as you would shun the plague.

Always meet your appointments on time. Never late. If possible, not much ahead of the moment.

Don't talk too much. Let your actions speak for yourself.

Be honest, even if you lose money by it.

Never let business interfere with home duties.

Remember that money alone cannot buy peace, nor true friends, nor a loving family.

It is refreshing, in these days of speculation and dishonest dealings to know that a man can live according to the above principles and yet make money. It shows that honesty and business can go hand in hand.

HAVING NO EARS, HE LISTENED WITH HIS MOUTH.—Eskel Eads, who died recently, aged sixty-five years, was born without ears and had no apertures where his ears should have been. He was able, however, to gather sound through his mouth.

When addressed he opened his mouth and could hear conversation carried on in an ordinary tone. His hair was black at birth, but was interspersed with cilly-shaped gray spots, some of them resembling diminutive human hands and ears. These singular markings never changed and his black hair never became gray. Eads left 11 living children. The eldest, 45 years old, has hair as black as jet and not a gray hair in his head. The youngest, aged 13, is as gray as a man of 70. Eads was a native of New York State.

The courts in London have decided that a man may not keep in his back yard a dog which barks and howls. The judge stated that the best protection against thieves and burglars was a small dog inside the house, which would quickly alarm the inmates and was infinitely more feared by the fraternity. Neither was it lawful for hound organs to play when forbidden, nor for parties to keep cocks that crowed at early morning or parrots suspended out of windows, or anything that acted as a disturbance to those living near.

Sows about to farrow should be allowed some exercise and be fed mainly on green food. This will make parturition easier, increase the tendency to give milk and prevent the feverish condition which frenzies these animals so that they often destroy their own offspring. A sow that has once done this is not apt afterwards to make a good mother and should be fattened for slaughter.

Mrs. A. T. Stewart, now summering at the Grand Union in Saratoga, has the habit of going to the hotel store-room every Saturday to be weighed, and as she always gives the storekeeper $5 for this service, he is one of the few men that believe in letting a woman have her weigh.

The mayor of Boston sent two packages exactly alike in weight and contents a few days ago. One of them was bound for Paris, France, 3,000 miles away and the postage on it was 20c. The other was destined for Worcester, 40 miles distant, and the postage was 25 cents.

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—Dr. I. S. Warren is still in Somerset in attendance on a very sick child. Mr. Winfield Scott, of the firm of J. M. Hackney & Co., is quite ill with flux; also Mrs. H. M. Linney.

—Rev. R. A. Johnston preached at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Rev. Dr. Newton, of Millersburg, conducted the services at the Walnut street M. E. church, Sunday morning and night.

—Mr. Preston Sexton, who was so brutally beaten and shot at Junction City a week ago last Saturday night has been improving for several days. His physicians now think the chances good for his recovery.

—The Baptist church at Junction City was dedicated Sunday morning by Rev. P. T. Hale, of this place. Before the dedication ceremonies commenced a debt of $340 was extinguished by contributions made on the spot.

—In the quarterly court Monday there were three petition cases and seven summonses. One of the former was that of W. V. and M. F. McKnight vs. the L. & N. R. R. for carelessly killing stock. Another was H. W. Evans vs. the C. & S. R. R. for damage done a show-case during transit from New York.

—Mr. J. W. Banks, of Cane Valley, was in Georgia a short time ago and concluded to invest in a car-load of watermelons. He did so, shipping 181 melons from Augusta to this point. Thursday morning he footed up expenses of his purchase up to the present and found them to be $148.38. This makes the melons cost 31 cents each and Mr. Banks feels like one who trends alone some banquet hall deserted.

—There is no longer any reason to doubt that the people of Danville are without exception good and true temperance people; that there is no selfishness or hypocrisy connected with the advocacy of the sentiment on the part of any one. The proof of this is found on the fact that an empty jug has sat in the court house yard for a whole week without any one picking it up and sending it off to have it filled with whisky.

Why is a knee like creation? Because it is made out of nothing, and God knows it's good.

CURE FOR PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, raising the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A sore, like the hemorrhoids, producing a very disagreeable itching, smarting, burning, is a very common attendant. Itching, bleeding and itching Piles yield to the application of Dr. Rosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and affording a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address the Dr. Rosanko Medicine Co., Piquette, Ohio. Sold by McRoberts & Stage.

Positive Cure for Piles.

To the people of this county we would say that we have been given the agency of Dr. Rosanko's Pile Remedy—absolutely guaranteed to cure or money refunded—internal, external, bleeding, itching or itching Piles. Price 50 cents a box. No cure, no pay. Penny & McAllister, Druggists.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

We emphatically guarantee Dr. Rosanko's Catamenial, a female remedy, to cure Female Diseases, such as Ovarian troubles, Indigestion and Ulceration, Fainting and displacement or bearing down feeling, Irregularities, Barrenness, Change of Life, Leucorrhoea, besides many other weaknesses, 8 pinal Weakness, Sleeplessness, Nervous debility, Palpitation of the Heart, &c. For sale by druggists. Price $1 and $1.50 per bottle. Send to Dr. Rosanko, Ulster, N. Y., for pamphlet, free. For sale by Penny & McAllister, Druggists.

THIS IDEA OF GOING WEST

to Colorado or New Mexico, for pure air to relieve Consumption, is all a mistake. Any reasonable man would use Dr. Rosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup for Consumption in all its first stages. It never fails to give relief in all cases of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Pain in the throat and all affections that considered primary to Consumption. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Sold by McRoberts & Stage.
